The natural skin care regime

With harmonising Speick extract

About us and our company philosophy

Speick Natural Cosmetics – behind the name is the goal of company founder Walter Rau to harness the benefits of the ancient medicinal plant Speick for human use, which the company has been pursuing since 1928. Today, the work and philosophy of the management of the family-run company, now in its third generation, and their employees are guided by this anthroposophically motivated principle. Walter Rau established the company in 1928 at great risk, at the height of the Great Depression of the late 1920s. The “Feinseifenwerk Walter Rau” (“Walter Rau Fine Soap Works”) started production of its unique Speick soap and with it made German soap history. Today, we are able to reflect on a history that has seen us develop from an anthroposophically-oriented soap manufacturer into a modern natural cosmetics company.

Our living values and 80 years of accumulated experience have created a rich corporate history spanning three generations. The location of our production facilities in Germany has been an integral part of our quality from the very beginning.

Nock Mountains National Park – The unique natural cycle of the Speick plant

Nock Mountains National Park

The company's remarkably forward-sighted founder already saw the growing toll on the environment back in 1958:

"The toll of time is growing. Unhealthy, high-stress work practices, polluted water, air contaminated with dust, gases and acids, not to mention radio-activity, which may become a key problem in the future – all of which causes harm of an exceptional nature, which all affect our skin to varying degrees. Our food supply has also been damaged by pesticides, mineral fertilising practices, preservatives and so on."

Speick on the right track

The unique cultural history of this forgotten and rediscovered medicinal plant

Speick is known in botanical circles as Valeriana celtica. Its Latin name is cultural history at its best – "Valere" is Latin for "stay healthy", and "celtica" stands for its Celtic background, today the Carinthian Nock Mountains in alpine Austria.

The medicinal plant has a calming effect on the central nervous system while simultaneously stimulating the vegetative nervous system. Speick relaxes without tiring and revitalises body, mind, and soul.

Speick was previously known as Spica celtica. The medicinal plant's rootstock is reminiscent of an ear of grain, and so was unceremoniously dubbed Spica, the Latin word for this. Spica became Speick over the course of the plant's centuries of history.

To find Speick, you must first cover many vertical metres, leaving the tree line of the Carinthian Alps well behind. You can find what you're looking for from 1,800m. Speick builds its harmonising strength in the protected Nock Mountains National Park.

Valuable Speick oil has been gently extracted from the plant's roots for thousands of years.

Speick was used to perfume baths, and afterwards, the valuable oil was used for skin care in Egypt in 500 BC. For centuries, several tonnes of Speick were exported from Venice to all over the world every day.

The plant was already used medicinally in the 10th century – The doctor Galen cured Kaiser Marc Aurel's stomach problems with Speick. The plant was worth its weight in gold and was later subject to high taxes. Speick was exported to Turkey, Syria, Morocco and Sudan until the start of the 20th century. In 1936, Speick was threatened with extinction and was placed under protection. With it, Speick lost its economic importance and was promptly forgotten.

The unique conservation project

Speick Natural Cosmetics are the only products in the world to contain the unique Speick extract. Since 2003, the Speick plant is one of the few European plants to be certified as an organic ingredient from biologically regulated wild harvesting. Valuable Speick extract is combined with other ingredients, depending on the product. All Speick products contain Speick plant extract, which we exclusively manufacture worldwide.

Speick is harvested by hand, as it has been for centuries. The Speick harvest is an important source of income in what is otherwise a frugal alpine existence for the two alpine farming families with harvesting licenses. Fair trade has been a given for us from the beginning.

Speick walks

The peaceful star of the Nock Mountains

Speick walking tours are offered in the beautiful Carinthian Nock Mountains region from late spring right through to autumn. The Speick plant's natural habitat provides the setting for an aromatic walking experience. The Nock Mountain National Park and the Bad Kleinkirchheim Tourism association invite you on a short Speick walk, or a long Speick hike, visiting selected huts in the region. Experience pure indulgence and relaxation! The Speick plant's bewitching, aromatic perfume caresses body and mind as it wafts over alpine meadows in the mild autumn weather.

Further information about this unique programme is available from us or at www.nationalparknockberge.at or www.badkleinkirchheim.at

Active baths, active infused saunas, active massage and holistic wellness programmes are just the start of Speick wellness.
